NEGOTIATOR SAYS BABY SAFE

SHIPBUILDER CLAIMS CONTACT KIDNAPERS OF LINDBERGH BABY

John H. Curtis, Norfolk, Makes Statement Upon Return Wednesday from Mysterious Mission

Norfolk, Va.—Claiming he had established a contact which developed information that kidnaped baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., is now John H. Curtis, shipbuilder, returned Wednesday from a mysterious mission. He said that in the course thereof he had seen Col. Lindbergh but refused to tell the press where this meeting had been.

His formal statement to the press upon his return follows: "On my trip I made contact and was informed by my contact that Charles was well. I saw Col. Lindbergh personally but am not at liberty to say where. I regret my inability to say more at this time. Curtis said he would see reporters tonight and might then be in a position to give them more information.

Hopewell, N. J.—Possibility that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh Wednesday received signals from comrades of the air which might aid in the search for his kidnaped child arose when three planes roared out of the north, circled the mansion twice, and then disappeared in the direction from whence they came.

This recalled the mysterious airplane visits at the start of the investigation, when watchers noted the planes dropped messages.

It was impossible to tell today whether anyone emerged today from the Lindbergh mansion to watch the planes. There was a possibility the planes may have been chartered craft of sightseers but watchers doubted this because of the perfect formation in which they flew and the white and blue insignia on the wings, similar to the insignia on army and navy service planes.

Glasgow, Scotland.—Glasgow detectives obtained a voluntary statement Wednesday from Mrs. John Taylor, mother of Betty Gow, and sent the statement to London for consideration by Major Charles Schoeffel and Scotland Yard officials.

"I earnestly desire that Major Schoeffel will visit Glasgow himself and hear Betty's life story," Mrs. Taylor told the United Press. Mrs. Taylor said she had been asked about "Red" Johnson, Betty's sailor friend questioned in connection with the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby. "I told them Betty's letters always spoke of Johnson as a good pal," she said.

Drop Investigation of New Mexico Slayings

Las Cruces, N. M.—Explaining that their investigation has "led nowhere," J. Benson Newell, district attorney, said Wednesday he feared the three bandits who killed seven members of the Melquiades Espinosa family near Berino Friday night were made good their escape.

"All clues have failed us," Newell said. "The killers never may be found."

TREASURY HEAD HITS HOUSE TAX BILL BRANDING IT HARMFUL TO BUSINESS

By United Press

Washington.—The billion dollar tax bill as passed by the house was criticized by Secretary of Treasury Mills Wednesday as a measure which, if enacted into law, would "tend to retard business recovery."

Secretary Vehement
Mills' criticisms were voiced when he appeared before the senate finance committee at the beginning of senate action on the bill.

Mills detailed a number of features which he believes should be changed by the senate. He attacked the corporation income tax rate as set by the house and declared the stock transfer tax to be excessive under existing conditions.

Mills also urged that the senate eliminate the house provision which, at a tax upon dividends received by individuals.

Mills referred to the committee the original treasury tax recommendations as presented to the house ways and means committee at the beginning of tax bill consideration. He said the senate committee might want to go back to some of these if it decided to change the house measure.

FINDS ROOMMATE DEAD BESIDE HIM

New York.—Francis Deak, an assistant law professor at Columbia university, awoke today to find his roommate, James Bliss Gray, 36, an insurance broker, dead in bed beside him.

Gray, son of Dr. John H. Gray, professor of economics at American university, Washington, D. C., had committed suicide, police said, by shooting himself through the heart. He left a note reading:

"This is my own act, taken because I am more than tired of life. It has no connection with the business depression. Please notify J. H. Gray, Mrs. Evelyn Talmadge, Larchmont, N. Y., Dorothy Glasgow, Minneapolis, Minn., and C. L. McMillan, Vanderbilt 2-5500. Good-bye, my friends."

Minneapolis.—James Bliss Gray, New York insurance broker who committed suicide today, formerly lived in Minneapolis and attended the University of Minnesota. Gray was employed by the Minnesota Loan and Trust Co., and was the son of Dr. John H. Gray, professor of economics at American university, Washington, who also lived in Minneapolis when he was a member of the university faculty.

"She's Marvelous," says Gloria's Husband

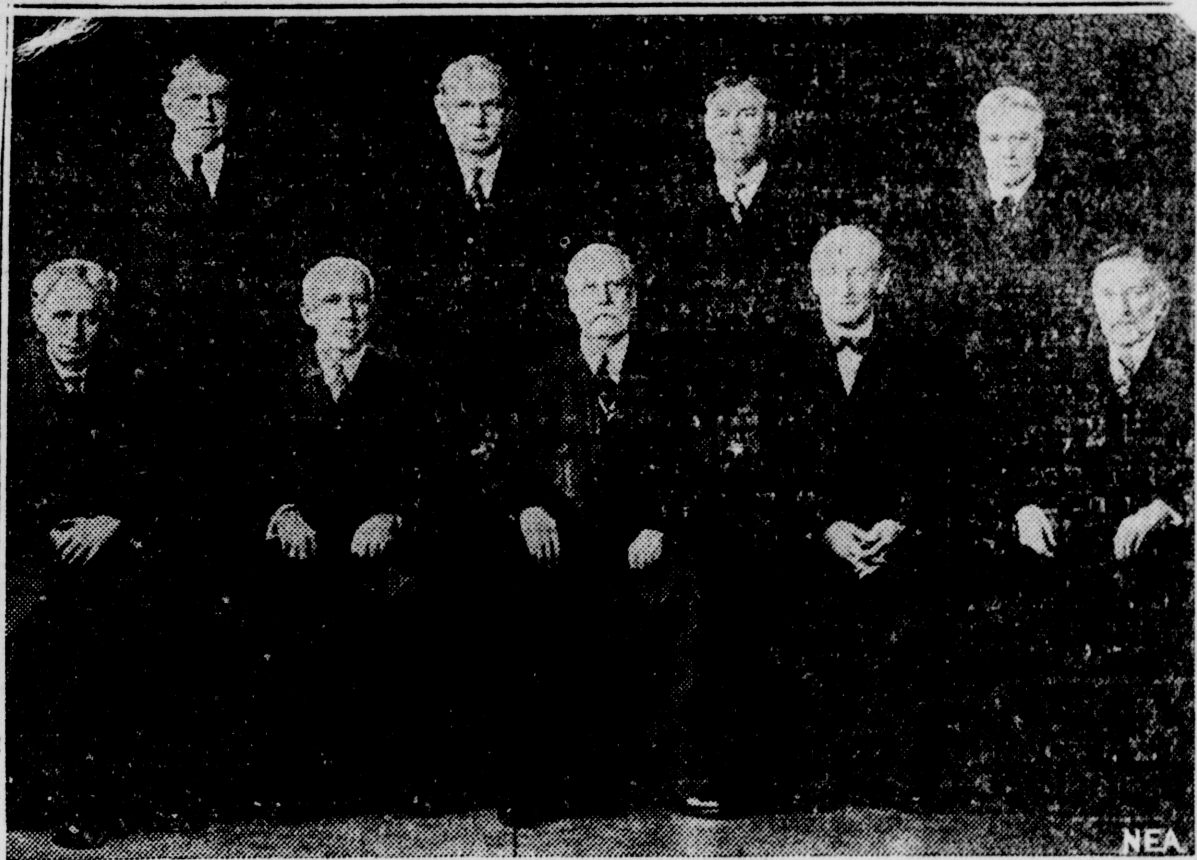

London.—Gloria Swanson and Michael Farmer received congratulations from all over the world Wednesday on the birth of a blue eyed curly haired daughter who cried so lustily that Miss Swanson remarked, "Well, she seems wired for sound."

The daughter was born late Tuesday. She weighed seven pounds and two ounces. Arrival was almost a month earlier than expected.

When Farmer was admitted to see his child for the first time he took the baby in his arms, paraded up and down the bedroom, and shouted, "She's marvelous, Gloria!"

MINE WAR FLARES COAL FIELDS OVER USE NON-UNION LABOR

ROOSEVELT ADDS WISCONSIN-N. Y. TO STATE SUPPORTERS

Milwaukee, Wis.—Wisconsin's 26 delegates to the Democratic national convention at Chicago in June were placed solidly behind Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York for president in returns from Tuesday's election compiled Wednesday.

LaFollette Republicans, backing Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska for president in opposition

* Albany, N. Y.—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt won over former Governor Alfred E. Smith in the only contest of general interest in the New York state primary Tuesday.

This victory came in the 41st congressional district, Buffalo, in a fight for delegates to the Democratic national convention between George J. Zimmerman, county leader, and Anthony J. Wolkowiak, both favoring nomination of Governor Roosevelt, and Gerhard Lang, Jr., and Philip A. Sullivan, pledged to Smith.

The contest in this district was the only one for delegates to the Democratic national convention in the state.

* President Hoover, held a large majority of their party's 27 delegates.

Country returns were expected to add to the LaFollette delegation's strength, but a clean sweep of the posts was not in prospect.

Later returns on the Democratic vote, on the other hand, were not expected to cause a material change in the lineup in favor of Governor Roosevelt, whose delegates held better than a 2-to-one margin over an unopposed slate favorable to former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York.

The LaFollette progressives, on returns from approximately one-third of the precincts, were ahead for four of the seven Republican delegates-at-large and were splitting the 20 district candidates with the regulars. The LaFollette delegates were pledged to Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska.

The Republican regulars were not, however, pledged to President Hoover although sympathetic toward him on all matters other than prohibition.

Pimento, Ind.—An attempt to operate the Dixie Bee coal mine with non-union labor resulted Wednesday in a clash between workers and 500 pickets. Eleven workers and mine officials were injured, none seriously. Operation of the mine was suspended.

Sheriff W. E. Dreyer, Terre Haute, started an investigation which he indicated would result in arrest of several leaders of the pickets.

Dreyer obtained authority from county officials to hire as many additional deputies as needed and notified Gov. Harry G. Leslie, and federal authorities, that outside assistance would not be required.

The Dixie Bee was one of a number of western Indiana mines thrown open to non-union miners after the United Mine Workers rejected the operators' proposal of a basic wage scale reduction from $6.10 to $4 a day.

Three hundred union miners were reported to have left Sullivan for Pimento before Wednesday.

day's trouble. Another group of miners was said to be on the way to Dugger, where several other diggings were operating. No trouble was reported at Dugger, however.

The outbreak here had been anticipated, and John H. Beasley, Terre Haute, lawyer for the mines, brought a supply of tear gas bombs last night. The bombs were not used, however.

Moundsville, W. Va.—Tear gas bombs were used by state police and deputy sheriffs Wednesday to halt 1,500 striking miners from Ohio as they attempted to march to the McKeesport mine near here.

None was hurt and no shots were fired as the officers dispersed the crowd.

The miners crossed the Ohio river at Powhatan and started marching toward the mine. Three state troopers and county officers met them and attempted to persuade them to turn back. When the crowd refused, tear bombs were hurled and the marchers scattered.

CHALLENGE LEGION TO CEASE 'FURTHER AGITATION FOR RAIDING TREASURY'

New York.—The American Legion was called upon Wednesday to force its officers and executives "to cease further agitation for treasury raiding for veterans."

A stinging telegram forwarded by the Willard Straight post of the Legion to National Commander Henry L. Stevens, charged flagrant abuses which it attributed squarely to the Legion itself, adding that congress has been intimidated by a "paid Washington lobby and high pressure propaganda."

Stevens Tuesday was quoted by the White House as endorsing the president's opposition to any bonus at this time.

The message, one of the sharpest exchanges of its kind on record, comes on the eve of hearing for more bonuses to ex-service men, opening next week at Washington.

"We demand," said the telegram from the New York veterans, "discontinuance of Washington lobby and all attempts to coerce congress to vote additional billions and special privileges which will thereby degrade patriotism of war service, imperil government finances, gouge taxpayers and make the word of veteran synonymous with panhandler and grafter."

The whole subject to veterans grants came under the lash of the local post which charged that the living were favored at the widows and dependents of the dead.

Kansas City, Mo.—Darold D. DeCoe, national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, today attacked the American Legion, on the bonus issue.

15,000 STORM PARLIAMENT IN SEARCH FOR PRIME MINISTER

Columbia Campus Seethes with Excitement Students Strike in Protest Expulsion Editor Student Daily

New York.—Hostilities broke out on the Columbia University campus Wednesday as the one-day strike in protest against the expulsion of Reed Harris, editor of the Spectator, undergraduate daily, went into effect.

Attempts by a group of strike pickets to cover the mouth of the statue of alma mater with black crepe to symbolize "gag-rule" at Columbia, resulted in a spirited battle between a band of strikers and members of the so-called football element, which Harris had criticized editorially.

Hundreds of students walked about the campus, wearing in their lapels pasteboard tags bearing the legend: "on strike," while scores carried strike banners. About 130 student pickets patrolled the doors of all academic halls to prevent students from entering class rooms.

ECONOMIC VIEWS CANDIDATES HOLD KEY TO CAMPAIGN

PRIMARIES TUESDAY SHOW ROOSEVELT FAR AHEAD OF SMITH PLEDGES

Washington.—Straws in the wind indicate political currents are shifting toward the left.

The movement in behalf of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt has veered definitely in that direction. Many now believe that if he is nominated, his contest against

* Washington.—Victory for Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt in the Wisconsin primary will assure him of 135 votes for presidential honors in the Democratic national convention.

They are distributed, pledged, instructed, or assured by reason of failure of others to file, as follows:

Wisconsin 26, Maine 12, Iowa 26, Washington 16, New Hampshire 8, Minnesota 24, North Dakota 9, South Dakota 10, Georgia 28, Alaska 6.

New York's delegation of 91 will be uncommitted, although Roosevelt is believed to be the choice of a majority of the group.

President Hoover will evolve into an issue between conservative and liberal views on economics.

First Speech in St. Paul

Just how far Roosevelt himself has moved toward the left will be revealed when he speaks in St. Paul, Minn., on April 18. It will be his first important campaign utterance outside of New York state. That he should choose the heart of the insurgent belt as his springboard for this first major utterance is regarded as significant. His delegate strength has shown up most clearly in this section. Returns for Tuesday's election in insurgent Wisconsin showed his delegates far ahead of those pledged to Alfred E. Smith.

One of Roosevelt's foremost supporters, Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, said this week that the "poorer trust interests" and the "banking fraternity" were the two agencies "bitterly opposed" to Roosevelt.

Outlines Opposition

In general Roosevelt is supported by the more liberal and insurgent Democrats represented by Senators Wheeler, Mont., Dill, Wash., and McKellar, Tenn. He is opposed—at least regarded rather coldly—by such conservative Democrats as National Chairman John J. Raskob, J. P. Morgan, and Bernard Baruch. The alignment is not 100 per cent. For instance one of the insurgent Democrats, Senator Long, La., is extremely hostile to Roosevelt, whereas such a cautious conservative as Senator Cordell Hull was so friendly to Roosevelt that he stepped aside as a favorite son in Tennessee.

Hoover with Financial Tieup

President Hoover, it is generally recognized now, has identified himself fairly closely with the eastern financial community. In any issue of so-called "conservation" against liberalism he is likely to be aligned on the conservative side.

Today's Edition of Dispatch Printed on New 16-Page Press

Today's 8-page edition of the Daily Dispatch was printed on the new 16-page Goss stereotype rotary press. The Daily Dispatch begs your indulgence should a few imperfections be found through the pages. Readers must bear in mind the press is undergoing the period of adjustment. But, it will only be a matter of a few days before all mechanical adjustments will have been made and you will obtain the benefit of distinct and legible reading material.

Note, too, that the new press prints eight columns giving readers another column of news to each page. The old "flat-bed" model, which the new machine replaces, produced an eight page paper seven columns in width. The new press is capable of printing up to 16 pages at the rate of 20,000 eight page copies an hour or 10,000 sixteen page papers an hour.

RACIAL ELEMENT WEARIES DARROW JURY EXAMINATION

Copyright, 1932, by United Press

Courtroom, Honolulu, T. H.—Sharp drawn racial lines embittered the honor playing trial of four Americans Wednesday as the defense used peremptory challenges to obtain a jury of whites while prosecutors favored Orientals and half-castes.

Clarence Darrow, aged and shrewd chief defense counsel who had denied such animosities existed among the mixtures of Hawaii's "melting pot," found himself temporarily beaten as the third day's hearing began with only five whites in the list of 12 prospective jurors.

"I didn't realize it before, but it's quite possible that the scarcity of jobs has something to do with this," he declared vehemently. "It's possible some of these people want to be on the jury because they are out of a job and want $4 a day."

Apprehensive that smoldering hates were masked by bland faces, Darrow excused one half-caste after another, and occasionally a Japanese or Chinese with them.

In a genial Irish brogue, Prosecutor John Kelley matched Darrow's maneuvers by excusing the white and trying to retain the racial brothers of the slaying victim.

In the jury box awaiting arrival of Circuit Judge Charles S. Davis were Kam Hai Lee and Kenneth Sun Chunn, Chinese; Charles Hao and Edward Gooes, Chinese-Hawaiians; Hsaka Imada, Japanese; Charles Akana, Hawaiian; Sam J. Lyle, part Hawaiian; Kenneth B. Bankston, R. H. Eveleth, Shafford Waterhouse, William R. Chellard, and Charles H. Strohm, whites.

Rochester, Minn.—Former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri Wednesday was reported "resting" although completely recovered from an operation for gall bladder trouble. Reed is expected to leave Rochester for Kansas City in a few days.

OFFICIAL RESCUED FROM MOB AFTER APPEAL BY PRIEST

NOT A SOUND PANE OF GLASS LEFT IN HOUSE OF PARLIAMENT AFTER RIOT

St. Johns, N. E.—A mob of rioters ruled St. Johns Wednesday after storming parliament buildings, wrecking government offices, assaulting Prime Minister Sir Richard A. Squires, and threatening to tear Inspector General of Police Hutchings to pieces if they could lay hands on him.

The prime minister's life was saved, probably, by a Catholic priest defender.

Mob Numbers 15,000
"This is not a riot, it is revolution," Sir John R. Bennett, K. B. F., former acting premier and a veteran in service of the Newfoundland government, said as he watched the mob. It was throwing everything movable out of the parliament buildings, attempting to burn the buildings, and uprooting fences around the grounds to use pickets for weapons.

It was reported that Sir Richard had resigned but officials said it was impossible for the cabinet to resign until Sir Richard had been received by the governor, Sir John Middleton. It was understood, however, that members of the cabinet had advised the governor to ask for the prime minister's resignation.

The mob numbered about 15,000 at its greatest strength when a parade started from the Majestic theater to the parliament buildings. Resolutions protesting against alleged blocking of popular demand for an investigation of the government were being considered there. The parade started in an orderly fashion. Witnesses said the rioting started when police assailed the crowd at the parliament buildings.

Harrass Government for Weeks
The rioting was the result of the acute economic situation here and was attributed by several prominent citizens to the dilatory tactics of the government in dealing with public demands for relief.

The government has been attacked by the opposition for three weeks. The opposition demanded investigation of charges of malfeasance in public office and misuse of public funds by the prime minister and secretary of state. After the charges had not been formally denied, resolutions were passed at public meetings protesting against the alleged blocking of the investigation.

The resolutions were being considered in parliament when the rioting broke out. It was the second time in recent weeks that the government buildings had been invaded.

The crowd threatened to take Sir Richard to the waterfront and throw him in the harbor, just as they had threatened to throw him out of a window several weeks ago when a mob invaded his offices and forced him to telephone orders for an increase in unemployment relief.

The Rev. Father Pippy, shielding the prime minister from the mob after he had been smuggled out of the parliament buildings, stood his ground courageously as the hostile crowd came charging toward him. Father Pippy and his companions were pushed roughly against an automobile. The priest climbed on the running board and made a fervent appeal that the crowd do nothing further to harm the premier.

The attack on the houses of parliament lasted two hours. When it wound up, the infuriated mob swept upstairs and entered the chamber proper through the strangers' gallery. The speaker of the house jumped up and announced temporary adjournment. Members fled into adjoining rooms, barricading doors behind them.

DEMANDS RETRACTION OF CHARGES AGAINST RURAL CREDITS BUREAU

St. Paul—Retraction of charges against the present administration of the state rural credits department was demanded today by C. F. Gaarenstroom, chairman, in a letter to Theodore Christianson, former governor.

Gaarenstroom's letter protests against statements made in Christianson's signed article in the Dawson Sentinel, a newspaper he formerly owned.

Statements which Gaarenstroom demands be retracted charge that "a newspaperman who has never sold a piece of real estate in his life is now in charge of the rural credits department" and that "an aviator who has never run a farm and whose chief activity is to transport Gaarenstroom to and from St. Paul is supervising farm operations."

The airplane pilot, Gaarenstroom revealed, is D. Robert Johnson, Montrose, "who replaced a sister and brother-in-law of one of your appointees in the bureau."

Gaarenstroom said he had been in Johnson's plane but once and then for a short ride over the twin cities and that Johnson had held many farm management positions.

The newspaperman is Kent Holen, Gaarenstroom said, and for eight years has engaged in real estate operations.

RUM SHIP, FEDERAL CUTTER IN CRASH

Miami, Fla.—A head-on collision between a 32 foot liquor running boat and a 26 foot federal speed boat, each attempting to ram the other, ended a spectacular chase and battle in North Biscayne Bay today.

Both boats were hurled up on the shore by the impact, their bows wrecked.

Harry W. Wilson, Mimini, one of three alleged rum runners aboard the boat was captured a block inland by custom officials who gave chase after the collision.

His leg had been injured. Two others escaped. Federal prohibition agents reported they found 200 sacks of liquor in the wrecked rum boat and seen the pursued men pitch other sacks overboard during the chase.

The government officers said that before the collision the liquor boat, unable to get away, had tried to ram the federal craft. In one attempt a federal man was pitched overboard and fought the incoming tide for half an hour before being rescued.

PUBLIC INTEREST REQUIRED TO SECURE JUNIOR COLLEGE HERE, COHEN REPORTS

Difficulties presenting themselves through inquiries reveals that these must be overcome by public education and interest before Brainerd can secure a junior college, Dr. A. K. Cohen reported at the April meeting of the Washington Parent Teacher Association Tuesday evening in the cafeteria of the Washington high school.

Dr. Cohen is chairman of a committee entrusted with investigation of steps required to secure a junior college.

An expression of thanks was tendered the committee for its work and the committee was empowered by resolution to continue its work and take whatever action deemed advisable to further the cause.

Talks Social Science
Richard L. Penrose, social sciences instructor in the high school, discussed the requirements of the state department of education in regard to the teaching of social science in the senior year.

Seniors must study the essentials of civics, economics and social problems, with twelve weeks given to each subject, which means that ground has to be covered at a much greater rate of speed than under the old system when each subject was allowed a period of eighteen weeks. In addition to mastery of facts, the student is supposed to learn to think seriously about the problems that he meets when he goes out in the world, Penrose said.

After various discussions and announcements, Mrs. Sam Newman read the minutes of the last meeting and the minutes of the Central Council meeting of last week.

Announces District Meet
Mrs. T. E. Jones, president of the district P. T. A., discussed the meeting to be held here April 20. An interesting program, both educational and inspirational, is promised for the day, she said.

The final business of the evening was the election of officers for the coming year.

These people were elected to pilot the organization for next year: President—George Pelconar, 1st Vice-President—J. F. Chubaz, 2nd Vice-President and Historian—R. L. Penrose.

Secretary—Mrs. L. F. Mohman. Treasurer—Mrs. W. C. Rasch.

"Jazz Age" Row Splits Church

Just how much dancing parties and athletics have to do with Sunday school and junior department work is a question on which the fashionable Rogers Park Congregational church of Chicago is split. Dr. Howard Dabs, instructor and center of the dispute, is shown above with two pretty students of indoor baseball. Alleged discovery by a junior of empty liquor bottles and cigaret stubs following a school affair rought on an investigation and heated hearings, but Dr. Dabs is still in control. He is criticized for stressing athletics and good times.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 6, 1932

A CURIOUS WORLD—

The youngster who fell down a narrow mine shaft in Oklahoma was saved after several dozen men and thousands of dollars worth of mechanical equipment had been pressed into service for him. The eagerness with which the people of that Oklahoma town mobilized themselves to get one little three-year-old out of a hole in the ground is an inspiring, heartening thing.

Unfortunately, though, that's only one side of the picture. We live in a cock-eyed world, and here's another little story to prove it.

While this rescue work was going on in Oklahoma, a third grade teacher in a public school in a large middlewestern city was asking her pupils to write short themes entitled, "What I had for breakfast this morning."

The themes, when she got them, were rather shocking. A lot of them consisted of pathetic little scrawls saying, "I didn't have any breakfast this morning"—"I had a cup of coffee"—"Mother went away this morning and didn't get me any breakfast"—"Nothing."

So the teacher, dipping into a slender fund raised by public contribution, bought each of these youngsters a half pint of milk.

She had had them write that theme, you see, so that she could find out, tactfully, just which children had come breakfastless to school.

The city in which this happened is large, and, as cities go, rich. It has magnificent public buildings, it supports an excellent symphony orchestra, a fine art museum and three well-equipped colleges. It has a string of suburbs which contain some of America's finest homes. It also contains several thousand children who get no breakfasts; and in order to get a little money to buy milk for them, it was necessary for the city's newspapers and its radio stations to conduct a long and spirited campaign.

Let one child get into danger and we are quick to come to the rescue. Let several thousand suffer from acute hunger, though, and we remain placid; or we give them each a half pint of milk and think we've done our whole duty.

A NEW SET OF GHOST STORIES

The best ghost stories, usually, are not those invented by some skilled master of fiction; they are those that spring up spontaneously among the ordinary people, traveling about from mouth to mouth and reaching print only by accident.

Recently newspaper correspondents discovered that the farmers who live around Monte Alban, Mexico, where rich treasure-tomb discoveries were made a short time ago, have been telling strange tales about supernatural goings-on in the vicinity of the tombs.

One story has it that a hollow gourd filled with gold appear every so often in the middle of a lake nearby. Another tells of spirits who stalk through the ruins of the old Aztec city, carrying golden ornaments. A third, the most eerie of all, has to do with the reappearance of the old Aztec market.

According to this story, the market place that used to exist at Monte Alban before the white men came will materialize, at night, every so often, just as it was in ancient times. The man who sees it and accepts the phantom as genuine comes to no harm; but if a man sees it and refuses to believe in it, he is straightway enchanted and compelled to become a ghost and wander eternally about the ghostly market, and he never can come back to real life.

These folk tales, born since the ancient ruins were uncovered, will probably be circulating about the villages in that neighborhood a century from now. They are of the true type of ghost story, the best type; the type that comes into being of itself, so to speak, and does not depend on any professional story-teller for its existence.

There is something rather significant about such stories. They reflect the universal feeling that life is permitted to go on in the presence of unaccountable mysteries; that earth and air and sky veil unimaginable marvels, and that human existence is a far more incomprehensible thing than learned folk assume. And that, perhaps, is why we all enjoy them.

THE BONUS PLAN—

It is rather hard to quarrel with President Hoover's stand in opposition to the passage of additional soldier's bonus legislation by the present congress.

To pay the bonus now, in the way generally proposed, would cost around $2,000,000,000. Just how the strained federal treasury would bear an additional load of that size is not all clear. A time when every branch of the government is being called on for the strictest economizing is certainly no time for expenditures of such proportions.

If Uncle Sam is to dig down for $2,000,000,000 worth of cash awards, would it not be better to make it a straight unemployment relief proposition? There are plenty of men besides war veterans who could use federal assistance right now.

Bright Spots in Today's Business

By United Press

New York.—An order for 8,000 tons of line pipe for the Southern Counties Gas Co. was received by U. S. Steel Corp.

Washington.—Exports from the United States increased $4,023,119 during February to a total of $153,924,528, the commerce department reported.

South Bend, Ind.—A gain of 20.3 per cent in Studebaker Corp. sales in the first quarter, as compared with the corresponding period of 1931, was reported by A. B. Erskine, president of the corporation.

Baltimore.—Safeway Stores, Inc., reported sales in the four weeks to March 26 totaled $18,575,087, compared with $18,139,501 in the corresponding period of 1931.

Detroit.—Attendance at the national aircraft show here is running about 50 per cent ahead of 1931, it was reported.

Boston.—Gibbs Co., department store, reported net profit for the year ended Jan. 31 was $124,501, against $41,418 in the preceding fiscal year.

New York.—Volume of business of the New York cocoa exchange in the first quarter was the largest since the record first quarter of 1929, H. T. McKee, president, reported.

DUBLIN AIRPORT

Dublin.—Although one of the chief cities of Ireland and the British Empire, Dublin is without an up-to-date airport. A private concern now proposes to erect a modern port here to prepare for air passenger and freight traffic. What air commerce that has been carried on here used the army station at Baldonnel.

The dime-a-dance girl

BEGIN HERE TODAY
ELLEN ROSSIER, beautiful 20-year-old, loves LARRY HARROWGATE, young artist. When he becomes engaged to another girl, Ellen agrees to marry STEVEN BARLEY, 37 years old and wealthy. Her impoverished family is indebted to Barclay. Barclay has been married before. Scandal accompanied his previous divorce from LENA GRAYSON, dancer. To avoid publicity, Ellen and Barclay are secretly married. They drive to his long island home, deserted except for FERGUS, the butler. There Barclay suffers a heart attack. LARRY SMYES, Barclay's lawyer, arrives with doctors and nurses. Barclay dies at dawn. Smyes tells Ellen her marriage is not legal because papers proving Barclay's divorce have been stolen. Ellen yields all claims on Barclay's fortune to avoid scandal. Then she learns Larry Harrowgate is Barclay's nephew. Heartbroken, she returns home. Ellen distrusts Fergus. She returns to work at her old job as a hostess at Dreamland dance hall. Larry comes there, tells her he loves her, and asks her to marry him. She tells him of her marriage to Barclay. She and Larry go to buy the engagement ring.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLIV

AT luncheon which they ate in a quiet, candle-lighted restaurant, Larry began to tease Ellen about the wedding ring. "I do believe you selected that plain ring to save me money. You felt guilty over this one."

He flicked the solitaire with his thumb nail.

"I do feel sort of guilty," she admitted timidly. "You're too good to me."

"What a whopper!" "It's true."

"Get that out of your head, darling, and instantly. No one could be too good to you or for you. You're the sweetest, dearest, most honest—"

"You might not know."

He laughed at such foolishness. "What are you thinking about, sweet, with your eyes so big and your face so solemn?" he asked.

Ellen, down her coffee very carefully. "I was thinking that I'm not nearly so good as you think I am," she faltered. "I was thinking that I don't want you to feel that way about me. It isn't right. It would break my heart to fail you."

"I suppose you're hinting at that dark past of yours," Larry teased. "Well, I'm willing to risk it."

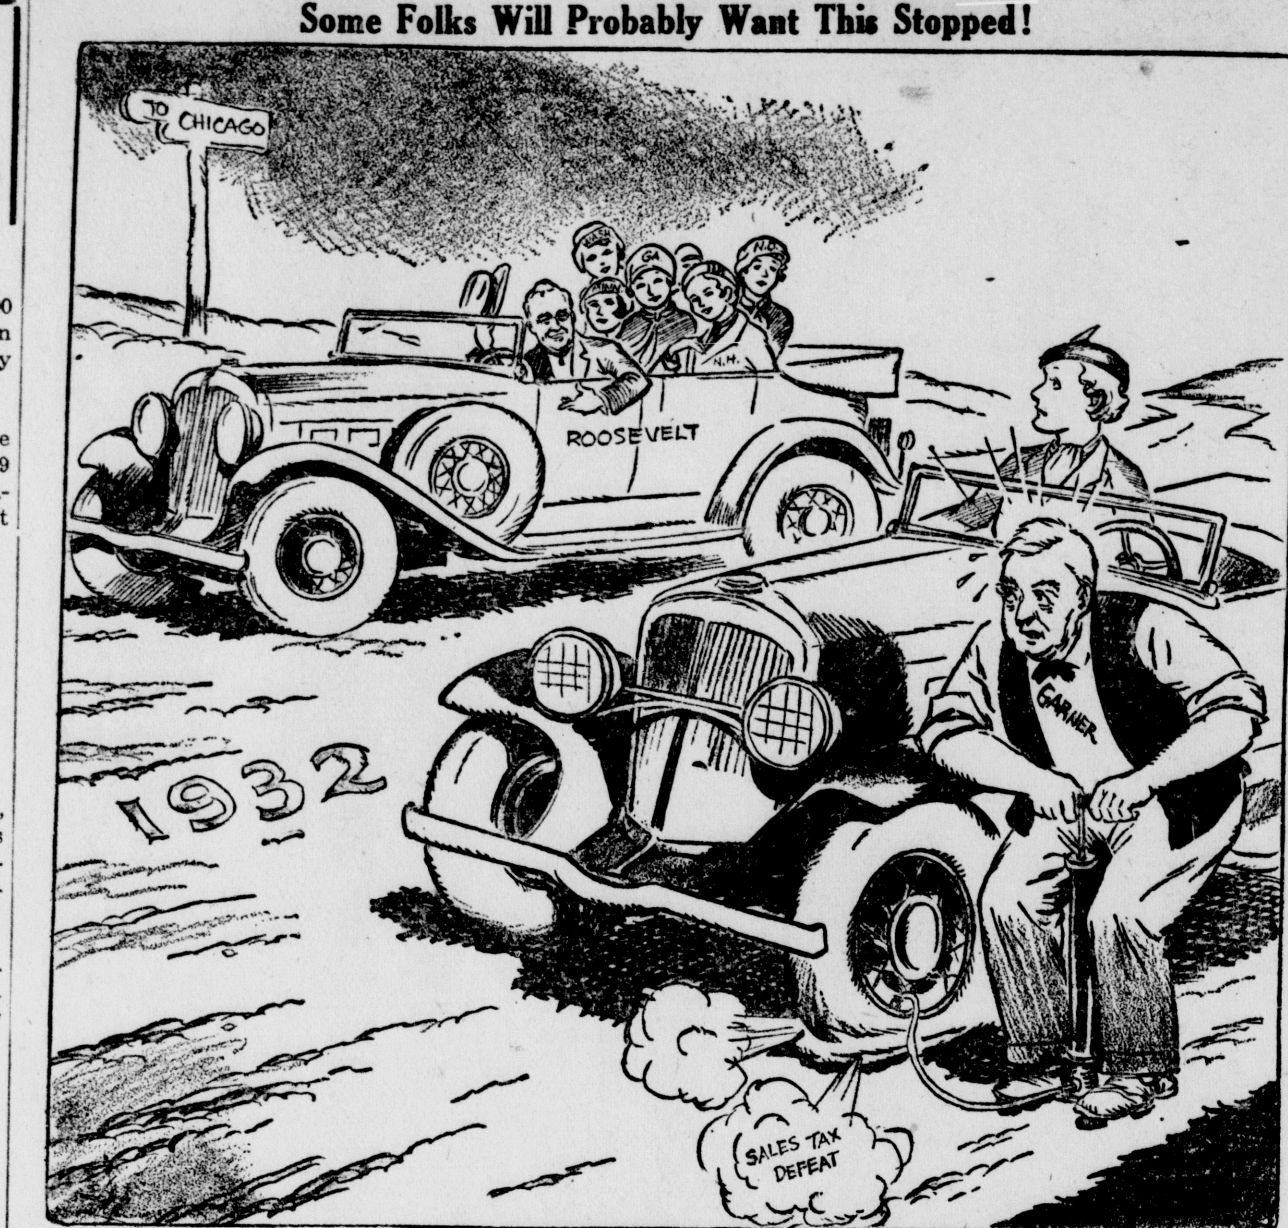

"Are you?" she asked so earnestly that he was sobered.

"What are you driving at?" he demanded. "What do you mean?"

"I don't mean anything," Ellen said suddenly and felt a little sick at seeing the relief which lighted his face.

"Girls are that way," she explained. "They can't be happy and not be analytical, and pretty soon they're unhappy wondering if things are too perfect to last. Silly, isn't it?"

"Darling, silly."

Our City Charter

(C)

Any charter which our present Charter Commission eventually offers to our voters will be the product of that body and not the product of any group not a part of that body. The commission has the responsibility of framing a charter, then giving it circulation, then explaining it to the public, and then working for its adoption. It would not want its rejection. It is not a small nor an easy task. It is of vital importance to every citizen.

Citizens should make their wishes known to this commission at an early date in order that all ideas on the subject can be weighed in the balance at the same time and provision made for those that are practical in the whole scheme of things. Do not let us sit idly by now when the commission is receptive to ideas, and, instead, wait until a charter is presented and then find fault with it. If a commission seeks assistance and ideas, it is certainly at the beginning of its work and not at the close.

WINGS TO FLY

New London, Conn.—A local inventor has perfected what he thinks is a practical set of wings to be attached to a human and enable him to fly. He has constructed a pair of wings that are each about 11 feet in spread. They are flapped by action of his arms. He explains that his legs will direct the steering of the apparatus. It weighs about 40 pounds.

A new gasoline pump for the auto-service station prints a receipt for the customer and keeps a record for the vender.

The dime-a-dance girl

you're so soon to be a member of the family I guess you might as well have a look at the family skeleton." "Skeleton?" "Have a look at this."

"This is the second warning," read the crude lettering. "There will be no more. If you don't see $1000 to p. o. box 33, City Hall Station, in the next three days I'll go to the newspapers and I don't mean maybe. I know one would be glad enough to print the facts."

"What does it mean, Larry?" she inquired, raising frightened eyes.

Ellen knew what it meant. She prayed desperately that his answer would prove her wrong.

"Blackmail," he replied briefly. "It's Uncle Steven. Something this—this person claims to know about his death."

"The worst of it is," Larry sighed, "that I'm not sure it's not true. Ordinarily I'd tear up an anonymous letter without a thought. I did tear up the first and hoped it would be the end as you see it wasn't."

"It's simply this," Larry went on in a troubled way. "The first letter said flatly that Uncle Steven died at St. Agatha's in an ordinary heart attack as I—as we all thought. It said he died at his long island place as the result of a night of wild carousal. He was moved to the hospital afterwards, so the letter said. According to the writer his feminine companion—there was one of course—was there at the time of his death and did not leave until early morning. No use going on with the details though—"

Ellen was conscious of the terrible pounding of her heart; conscious that her face, her voice must reveal nothing. Above all else she felt a cold, frantic despair. If the opening of that letter could have been delayed a little while! Five minutes, 10 minutes, how much easier everything would have been. It was too late now!

PRESENTLY they were sitting on the divan, discussing the matter. Ellen was pale and nervous, Larry too troubled for the moment to notice her pre-occupation.

"You see my position," he said. "A scandal like this would simply kill mother. On the other hand, if he added ruefully, 'I don't like the idea of parting with $1000 with no guarantee at all that that will be the end of it, particularly now when I need every cent I can lay my hands on. I'm not a rich man.'"

"Did you think I was rich, honey?" he asked after a moment. "I don't know what I thought," Ellen answered thickly. "It doesn't matter anyhow. I wouldn't care if you hadn't a dime."

"It won't be so bad as that," he replied with a smile at her vehemence. "I guess I'll be able to take care of my wife all right."

He brushed her hair with his lips and showed a disposition to abandon the topic for one more personal. Ellen gently disengaged herself from his arms.

"Why don't you go to Mr. Smyes, your uncle's lawyer, and ask his advice?" she asked in a natural voice.

Larry's brow clouded. "I'll tell you why not," he said. "It's because I don't trust him."

"Don't trust him?" "Smyes was with Uncle Steven when he died," Larry responded slowly. "I'm sure he hasn't told the truth about it. He's hiding something."

"What makes you think so? What makes you so sure that the person who wrote this note is telling the truth?"

It was Larry's turn to hesitate. His face reddened. "For one thing," he said reluctantly, "I know that on the night of his death Uncle Steven was out on Long Island with a very young girl."

Ellen's lips were dry. "Who told you?" she whispered.

"The proprietor of the Ra Ta Ta club," said Larry. "He swore Uncle Steven spent the entire evening there with this girl. They left the club exactly three hours before my uncle died."

Ellen's heart plunged dizzily. The pulses pounded in her ears and she could feel the palms of her hands growing icy. But Larry, staring at the rosy shadows on the hearth stone, did not notice how pale she had become.

"Poor Uncle Steven—to be mixed up in a mess like that," he sighed, his voice a mixture of pity and distaste.

"How do you know it was all so wrong?" the girl cried incoherently. "I knew Steven Barclay. He was a fine man, one of the finest who ever lived."

Her feet were on the brink of the chasm; she would not falter now. "I forgot that you knew him at the store," Larry said absently, still not looking at her. "It was at the store you knew him, wasn't it?"

"It was at the store," she whispered. Her hand dropped in a gesture of despair. She did not have the courage to go on.

"Don't get the idea I'm apologizing for him, honey," Larry went on reproachfully. "I knew him, too, and loved him. That's why I'd go to any lengths to protect his memory from the tongues of people not worth his little finger."

"What are you going to do, Larry?"

"Do? I don't know. I know well enough what I'd do if I could—but I can't write this thing!"

Who could have written it? Who but Fergus? All at once Ellen felt a desperate conviction that Fergus was the author of the evil message.

OMELET LORE

Perhaps one of the most attractive ways to serve eggs is in omelets. For breakfast, luncheon or late supper, they always appear to good advantage. Plain or with a sauce, a delicate omelet is sure to please.

There is no mysterious secret or indescribable trick connected with omelet making. Anyone who is willing to measure accurately and take the trouble of cooking carefully can make a perfect omelet. To be sure certain precautions must be taken, but the rules are simple and easy to follow.

Remember that an omelet must never be allowed to stand at any stage of its preparation. It must be mixed quickly, cooked at once and served on a hot dish as soon as it is done.

With two types of omelets and their numerous variations the hostess has a wide choice. The French omelet is made by beating the whole eggs while the puff omelet is made by beating the whites and yolks separately. The French usually is served with a filling of some sort spread over it just before folding. The puff omelet often is served with a jelly or sometimes a sauce is poured around after folding. However, there is no set "rule" regarding this and the types are used interchangeably. The puff omelet seems a bit more impressive and interesting when served, but is no harder to make than the plain one.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Stewed dried apricots, cereal, cream, creamed bacon in popovers, milk, coffee. LUNCHEON: Cheese omelet, creamed asparagus, whole wheat rolls, French rice pudding, fruit punch. DINNER: Casserole of liver, stuffed cucumbers, lemon sponge pie, milk, coffee.

Four eggs, 3 tablespoons milk or water, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon white pepper, 4-8 teaspoons butter.

Beat eggs together until well mixed but not light. Add milk and seasoning and turn at once in hot omelet or iron skillet thoroughly covered with butter. Pour omelet mixture gently into the pan, taking care not to scatter the butter. As bubbles form, prick them with a fork and stir the top lightly to keep smooth and insure even cooking. As omelet becomes firm on the bottom, lift the edges gently with a fork and tip pan slightly to loosen omelet from the bottom. Cook over a low flame until firm. Place in a hot oven or under the flame for one minute to dry the top. When done, hold the pan by the handle and make a cut with spatula through the center at right angles to the handle. Be careful not to cut through the omelet. Run spatula around edges to be sure they are free from pan. Place spatula under section of omelet nearest handle and fold over other half, tipping pan at the same time and sliding to a hot platter.

Four eggs, 2 tablespoons minute tapioca, ¾ cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 3 tablespoons butter.

Add salt and tapioca to milk and cook in double boiler for fifteen minutes. Remove from heat and add yolks of eggs beaten until thick and lemon colored. Fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Pour into hot buttered omelet pan and cook and fold as in preceding recipe.

DISMANTLING MAROCO MINE SERIOUS HANDICAP TO TROMMARD TAX REVENUE

The impending sale of the buildings and mining equipment of the Maroco mine at Trommard, will close the operations begun there by the Marquette Ore Company in 1921.

The Evergreen Mining Co., which has held the lease of the Maroco mine for the last year, will completely dismantle the washing plant and the jigging plant installed by the Virginia Ore Co. in 1928. This drastic action is being taken as a defense against the excessive tax rates of the village of Trommard, the rate having this year become 207 mills.

The dismantling of the plant will no doubt be a serious blow to Trommard, as the mine has been its chief active source of revenue for some years.

Since its opening in 1921 the Maroco has handled 1,944,468 tons of ore, producing 1,293,266 tons of concentrates in its washing and jigging operations.

Any ore mined in the Maroco properties in the future will be utilized by the Evergreen Mining Co.'s washing and sintering plants.

A Message to Wives About Finicky Husbands and Coffee

Here's Why Changing the Brand of Coffee You Use Has Not Made the Coffee You Serve Any Better

If you've changed your brand of coffee and your way of making it a dozen times without success, don't give up. There's a simple way to get the kind of coffee you want. In spite of all the different "brands" you've tried, you have probably been getting the same kind of coffee all along. Almost 70 per cent of all coffee sold in stores is this one common kind. It's all grown in one producing country, though it's put up in countless packages. Do you wonder that you got the same flavor in all those different brands? There's only one way to get a real change. Use coffee that comes from a different producing country. Any coffee expert will tell you this.

A'S, YANKS, SENATORS MAIN THREATS IN A. L. CAMPAIGN

THREE-CORNERED RACE INDICATED PRE-SEASON DOPE

New York—The American league race may be regarded as one involving three teams, Philadelphia's Athletics, the New York Yankees and Washington Senators. No club of the second division is seen with anything more than the widest outside chance of climbing to the peak.

Actually the race might be termed a two-team affair, for not a few baseball observers regard Walter Johnson's Senators as destined surely for third money.

Even the fans who believe this is a Yankee year are forced to admit to the soundness of the Athletics' position. Both Yankee and Athletic hopes are confronted with "life" but the New Yorkers "if" is the larger one.

Were the Athletics relying only on the club which made a runaway race in the American league last season they would be held as first favorites to win this year's title.

Actually they are slightly improved, with Outfielder Ed Coleman brought on from the Pacific coast ready to take Bing Miller's rightfield position. In addition the A's have Joe Bowman, a fair pitcher, also from the far coast, and Oscar Roettger, first baseman, bought from St. Paul because of his hitting ability.

On the pitching side the A's have Lefty Grove and George Earnshaw. Between them they won 62 games and lost 11 during the 1931 season. The Athletics are expected to use Dibs Williams at short. He played that position in the world series.

Frank Crosetti and Jack Salzgaver are the great white hopes of the Yanks. Crosetti will play short, and Salzgaver second. Lyn Lary, who played short last year, will play third. Salzgaver takes the place held by Tony Lazzeri. These two players came up to the big time at great expense and with brilliant records behind them.

It should go without saying that the Yankees will rely largely upon the home run twins, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig. Gehrig is now in a batting slump. This is a good time to have one—the season doesn't start until next Tuesday.

The third place Washington club is virtually unchanged. Joe Kuhel, who took Joe Judge's first base job during the 1931 season, will start at that position. The Senators have the brilliant but brittle Carl Reynolds to bolster the outfield, but he has not yet shown that he can displace the aged Sam Rice. Monte Weaver was brought up to the majors from Baltimore and may be a regular starting pitcher.

Cleveland Indians chances rest, as much as anything, upon Wally Piatek, star pitcher. Other things equal the tribe will stay in the upper division if Ferrell has a good year. The Indians may use Eddie Montague at the troublesome shortstop position. He played short part of the time last year. Manager Roger Peckinpaugh tried to get other players, notably Joe Boley of the A's, for the job. He could get no one he wanted and has fallen back on Montague.

TURF MEN MOURN DEATH PHAR LAP, AUSTRALIAN HORSE

Perry Stables, Menlo Park, Calif.—Phar Lap, the mighty "wonder horse" from Australia and one of the most magnificent thoroughbreds of all time, lay dead Wednesday in the rambling frame stables of Ed Perry's stock farm.

Red-eyed from lack of sleep and from crying, the little group of horsemen who sat beside the blanket-covered body in flickering lantern light all night long, was still stunned by the loss of their "Bobby."

A sudden attack of acute indigestion Tuesday felled the giant sorrel gelding which crossed the Pacific ocean to win the $50,000 Agua Caliente handicap and captivate the admiration of the American sporting public.

David J. Davis, co-owner of the track monarch, arrived today by airplane from Los Angeles. He entered the stable, lifted the blanket and, as tears streamed down his face, murmured, "Poor Bobby." He dropped the blanket over the horse which had won $332,250 for him and his Australian partner, and stumbled outside to his wife.

Davis was still too stupefied by his loss to make any decision as to disposal of the body. Friends suggested that it be mounted and placed on display at one of the jockey clubs. He said he had valued "Bobby" as he was called affectionately by the small retinue of Australian horsemen, at $500,000, and that he was not insured.

As the turf world gradually recovered from its amazement at the sudden passing of the greatest money-winning gelding in history cables and telegrams of condolence began pouring in for Mr. and Mrs. Davis. Phar Lap stood next to Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Beau as greatest money-winning horse of all time, and a special event at Tanforan track, nearby, had been arranged for this month, at which Phar Lap might have established a new record.

Davis and Harry Telford of Australia bought the colossal horse in the Antipodes for $800.

In 48 races, Phar Lap placed in all but nine. In those nine he carried the heaviest impost of 50 pounds. During October and November last year, he won eight races out of nine start. His great stamina permitted him to win the Melbourne cup at 2 miles; the Futurity stakes of 7 furlongs, and set an Australian record of 2 minutes, 2 1-2 seconds for the mile and a quarter.

OLYMPIC TRYOUTS ON AT LOYOLA U.

Chicago.—The Central A. A. U. boxing championships and Olympic tryouts will continue at Loyola university Wednesday night with 150 welterweights, middleweights, light-heavyweights and heavyweights from Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota competing.

Preliminaries in the lighter divisions were held last night. Among those who advanced to the second round were Jerry Chapman, Minneapolis, and Bruno Galvanoni, Rockford, Ill., both lightweights.

Chapman won a third round decision from George Taylor, Waukegan negro, and Galvanoni defeated Henry Kastman, Chicago, in three rounds.

Jerry Dugan, Minneapolis bantamweight, won his first bout from Johnny Fox, Chicago, in 3 rounds.

Dugan was eliminated from further competition when he lost his second round match to Nick Scialdif, Chicago bantamweight. The match, first of the second round contests, was added to the card late Tuesday night.

INDEPENDENT CAGE TEAM OFFICIALLY CREDITS SUPPORT

Having officially ended their basketball season at the state tournament at Duluth last week end, the members of the Brainerd Merchants cage squad want to publicly thank the merchants and other individuals who have made the successful 1932 season possible.

The members of the team want to thank in particular the following firms who made the purchase of suits for the players possible: Bredenberg Grocery Co., John M. Bye Clothing company, Russell Creamery company, Van's Cafe, Van's Bowling Alley, Blanke's, Sinclair Oil company, and the J. C. Penney company.

The team also acknowledges donations in cash for operating expenses which were given them by the following business firms: Montgomery Ward company, Brainerd Bottling Works, Riverside Grocery, Levis Soda Grill, Olympia Cafe, and the Peterson Clothing company.

A special vote of thanks is in order, members of the team agree, to Ira L. Peterson, secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., whose cooperation in the use of the Y. M. C. A. gym and in making it possible for the team to enter the state tournament at Duluth, has been invaluable to the team.

Peterson has also proved of great assistance to the business management of the Brainerd Merchants organization by donating the use of the executive office of the Y. M. C. A.

The basketball team also wants to express its appreciation to the Board of Education, Superintendent of Schools W. C. Cobb, Coach Bill Dammann, and the janitors in the Washington high school building for their cooperation both at games in the building and during the practice periods in the high school gymnasium.

In conclusion, the squad want to thank the Brainerd Daily Dispatch and the Crow Wing County Review for the generous publicity accorded them during the season; and also the hundreds of loyal fans who supported the basketball team during the season.

TORONTO FAVORED AFTER WIN OPENER OVER N.Y. RANGERS

New York.—The so-called "kid" forward line of the Toronto Maple Leafs has dispelled any doubt of its ability to function under high pressure, by beating the New York Rangers, 6 to 4, in the opening contest of the five-game series for the Stanley cup.

As a result, the Leafs are almost 2 to 1 favorites to win the Stanley cup, and the world's hockey championship.

Harvey Jackson, 21-year-old Leaf left winger, scored three goals and assisted in making a fourth. Charlie Conacher and "Red" Horner also scored.

The Leafs outplayed the Rangers from Ott Heller, hero of the Canadian-Ranger series.

In the final session, with the score at 5 to 4 and the Ranger front line storming the Toronto net, it looked like the "kids" might go down before the veteran Cook brothers and Frankie Boucher's withering attack.

But the Rangers made the fatal mistake of sending five men up the ice. They weakened their defense to such an extent that Red Horner had no trouble coasting through for the final goal.

WINNERS NAMED IN C.-I. BASKETBALL

Inter-class basketball at the Crosby-Ironton high school is completed with final games giving the victories to the junior boys' team and the senior girls' team.

Scores were as follows in the boys' games:

Juniors 30, Sophomores 10.
Seniors 18, Freshmen 6.
Freshmen 27, Sophomores 12.
Juniors 21, Seniors 14.

The lineup of the winning team included John Andolshek, Carroll Garceau, Arthur Martinetto, Paul Krueger, John Nozar, Harold Nyström, William Van Evers and William Zanbar.

The girls' games scored as follows:

Juniors 14, Freshmen 7.
Seniors 18, Sophomores 0.
Seniors 13, Juniors 12.

Players were Mary O'Brien, Floy Leigh, Mary Hunter, Lillian Palmer, Emily Moien and Ruth Wearse.

MARKSMEN PLAN SUMMER SHOOT

Formulation of plans for practice and competitive range shooting this summer will be worked out at a meeting of the Brainerd Legion Rifle club Thursday evening at 8:15 o'clock in Imgrund's garage, South Sixth street.

The club proposes to link with the Brainerd Rifle club in the use of the rifle range five miles south of the city.

Introducing to the readers of The Daily Dispatch this 16-page Goss stereotype rotary press placed in operation Wednesday as the first machine of its kind to go into use in towns and cities this size in this section of Minnesota.

Capable of producing an hour 20,000 eight-page papers, similar to the edition published today in the baptism of the machine, and 10,000 sixteen page papers an hour, the new press marks another epoch in the march of progress of The Daily Dispatch founded nearly 50 years ago by Fred W. Wieland who retired several months ago from active work.

While the press was placed in operation Wednesday, printing this edition, The Daily Dispatch asks that readers must bear in mind the period of adjustment necessary for securing perfect legibility in print and other operating adjustments. So, The Daily Dispatch asks your indulgence for a matter of a few days should defects be noticeable.

BRAINERD ARTIST PRESENTS CONCERT AT H. S. ON SUNDAY

Next Sunday afternoon, April 10, Alice Regina Johnson, the pianist of whom Brainerd is so deservedly proud, will present another of her delightful concerts under auspices Brainerd Musical club.

Miss Johnson, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Johnson of 708 Pine street, studied with Mrs. W. A. M. Johnstone here in Brainerd and owes her training in the fundamentals of piano playing and musical theory to her. She later studied at the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago where she won high honors in piano for two consecutive years. She was awarded the Bachelor of Music degree and was chosen twice by public contest to represent the school as piano soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. In 1920 she was awarded a scholarship by competitive examination by the Juilliard Foundation in New York City.

Miss Johnson was advised to pursue a musical career at an early age by Joseph Lhevinne, following an audition with him at which he recognized in her an unusual talent. Later she was taken as a pupil by Emil Von Sauer in Vienna and Rudolph Ganz in Chicago. Since 1928 Miss Johnson has been a member of the piano faculty of the American Conservatory of Music.

The concert Sunday will begin at 3 o'clock and will be at the high school auditorium. The program she has chosen to play will be published later.

EVERGREEN ASS'N SELECTS OFFICERS

Officers and three trustees of the Brainerd Evergreen Cemetery Association were elected at the annual meeting of the group Tuesday evening in the court house. Thirty members were present.

J. N. Grant was named president with other officers as follows: W. A. M. Johnstone, vice president; F. A. Farrar, treasurer; Robert J. Ger, superintendent.

James Graham, E. P. Slipp and Joe Kiebler were elected trustees for three years.

Naming of the secretary was deferred until the next meeting of the board of trustees. The present secretary is Edward Crust.

New by-laws were received and referred to the board of trustees for further action.

HARD WORKING 4-H CLUB REORGANIZES

Nokay Lake's "Go Getters," one of the leading 4-H clubs in the county reorganized Tuesday night at a meeting in the township school house with the assistance of County Agent E. G. Roth and the county club agent, Miss Mae Stephenson.

Officers named:
President—Elaine Cook.
Vice President—Mervin Tollefson.
Secretary-Treasurer—Ruth Bock.
Club Reporter—Virginia Cook.
Senior Leaders—Mrs. Roy Cook, Elmer Tollefson.

Twenty-five members are registered. Last year Virginia Cook was selected as the outstanding junior leader in club work in the county. She and her brother, Edward Cook, also won trips to the Junior Livestock Show at South St. Paul.
